

UAA College of Education

UNIVERSITY of ALASKA ANCHORAGE

The College of Education (COE) at the University of Alaska Anchorage (UAA) is seeking colleagues to advance and enhance our mission. Offering 6 undergraduate degrees/certificates and 10 graduate degrees and certificates, the College enrolls 1000 students from across Alaska and beyond. We are dedicated to creating learning communities that advance knowledge about teaching and learning, supporting the life-long education of professionals, embracing diversity, and serving the communities in which we live and work. We maintain a wide variety of partnerships and collaborations, promote innovative practices, and integrate meaningful assessment throughout our programs. The College places an emphasis on distance delivery to ensure that we meet the needs of all the state's educators, thus, all teaching positions require the ability to use a variety of delivery models; a strong record of teaching, service, and scholarly activity; strong collaboration skills, P-12 public school experience and an earned doctorate from a regionally accredited institution. For more details about the College of Education visit: <http://www.uaa.alaska.edu/coe>. UAA is regionally accredited by NWCCU and the COE is accredited by NCATE.

UAA is located in Anchorage on Cook Inlet and is situated in the heart of the Chugach Mountains and wilderness, with unparalleled beauty and recreational opportunity. The cosmopolitan city of 277,000 is ethnically and culturally diverse with over 95 languages spoken in its school district. Anchorage boasts a thriving arts community and is the business and commercial center of the state. For more details about UAA or Anchorage, visit www.uaa.alaska.edu and www.anchorage.net.
